

Licence server

User's Manual

Before you can use the web licence, you have to sign in to the licence server (<http://lic.sensotec.be>).

To sign in, enter a valid username and password on the sign in screen (see Creating a user).

You can do this on any computer with an internet connection, even if the software you want to use is not installed on that computer.

1 Creating a user

There are a number of ways to create a user:

1.1 You have an individual licence: create your username and password with your own serial number

If you have an individual licence for a software product, you can use your serial number to create an account on the licence server (<http://lic.sensotec.be>). For this, click on Create new user or administrator.

Choose User with serial number in the drop-down list and enter your serial number in the field next to it. You can find this number on the sticker on the product box or in the confirmation email of your purchase.

Then fill out the other fields of the form. The fields with an asterisk (*) are required. Please note that the username must be unique and cannot subsequently be changed.

Click on the Save button. A message will appear to notify you that the user has been created and that an activation email was sent to the user.

Click on the link in the email to activate the user. Then you can sign in to the licence server (<http://lic.sensotec.be>) by entering your username and password.

1.2 You use a group licence from your school or network and you receive your username and password from the administrator

An administrator can create multiple accounts with his licence (for example for a school). If the administrator has created an account for you, you will receive an activation email. Click on the link in that email to activate your account. Then you can sign in to the licence server (<http://lic.sensotec.be>) using the username and password from the email.

The administrator can also activate your account immediately and give you your username and password. In that case, you don't have to activate your account and you can sign in to the licence server (<http://lic.sensotec.be>) straight away. You will not receive an automatic confirmation email.

1.3 You use a group licence from your school or network and you receive a registration code from your administrator

The administrator can give you a registration code instead of a serial number. With that code you can create a username and password by going to the licence server (<http://lic.sensotec.be>) and clicking on the link Create new user or administrator.

Choose User with registration code in the drop-down list and enter your registration code in the field next to it.

Then fill out the fields as described under 1.1.

2 Using Licence Server enabled software

To use the applications you will need to have an internet connection that allows regular contact with the Licence Server (unless described otherwise in the description of each application later in this manual). The licence server performs regular checks on your credentials. If you lose your internet connections you will still be able to work up to ten hours with the current account. When the ten hours have passed the program will shut down after five minutes. You will be notified of this, giving you time to save any changes.

Unable to sign in? Check first and foremost whether your internet connection is active and if you have entered your user information correctly. For example, check upper- and lowercase letters when entering your username and password.
